The story last week about Ralph Britton winning $302.00 in small claims court was in error. The suit was filed by Gordon Martin on behalf of West Valley Federation of Teachers who originally paid Mr. Britton's legal fees.

That just goes to show you what happens when you take federal handouts. Now the feds want to tell you exactly how to spend it. I thought the (acquisition of the) old grammar school was a great idea but I think we should do it ourselves instead of letting Big Brother get a hand in it. Next thing you know they'll be telling us how to run the thing.

OLD TIMER

Editor'S note: The objection to the use of $400,000 in federal funds for the school project stemmed from a new tightening of regulations regarding use of HCD funds. More emphasis (and more money) should be spent on housing programs, they ruled.

I just called to give a public thank you to the PruneYard for their lovely "Peace on Earth" sign. It adds a bright spot to our city during the Christmas holidays.

HOMEMAKER

What's the difference between that picture of the chess piece that man wants to paint on his building and that giant painting of a man and woman on the side of a beauty shop on Campbell avenue? If a 20-foot painting is allowed, what's the big deal about a little chessman?

BEFUDDLED

Editor's note: That giant mural was painted on the business without permission from anyone. As far as we know murals and wall paintings are not classified as "signs" unless they're part of a firm's logo. Originally, the owners of that beauty salon asked for an identification sign on that stretch of wall. That request was denied and they decided to have the mural painted instead.

Layoffs at Campbell hospital

Trouble plagued Campbell Community Hospital will be closing its doors to new patients Jan. 1, the Board of Directors decided last Thursday.

The local hospital, which has been embroiled in internal disputes for the past several months, gave two week notices to department heads and most other employees last Thursday and Friday.

Pacific Community Hospitals, Inc., owners of the 48-bed facility at 1650 Winchester blvd., plan to keep the emergency room functioning to protect their state licensing.

According to Administrator Gene Mesick the shut down of in-patient care is intended as a "breather" to allow reorganization by the newly elected Board of Directors.

The hospital has been in tough financial straits in recent months after a substantial part of the professional staff withdrew as a result of sharp disagreements with physican-share holders.

One wing of the hospital was shut down earlier when the patient census fell below 20. Last week that figure had dropped to 11, less than 25 per cent of capacity.

For several weeks the local facility has been up for sale and O'Connor Hospital of San Jose is one of those expressing interest in a possible purchase.

The decision to shutdown in-patient care isn't expected to alter the potential selling price of the facility since it is the 48-bed license the seller would be purchasing.

Several parts of California, including this area, are considered overstocked in the number of hospital beds available to serve the population and licenses for expansion of bed capacity or new hospitals are almost impossible to obtain.

No lease on Hamilton school

By ROBIN HUTCHINS

THE PROPOSAL to lease Hamilton School to Metropolitan Adult Education appears to be dead. And that vacant school could be up for sale in 68 days.

A spokesman for adult education said terms of a lease agreement approved by the Campbell Union School District Board of Trustees are "unacceptable" and that the lease of the school will not be pursued.

According to Robert Hichborn, principal of the Campbell-South division of adult education, the lease passed Dec. 15 by school trustees was rejected by his group. The big issues was over the requirement that adult education be responsible for maintenance, utilities and custodial care.

HICHBORN SAID adult education, through the San Jose Unified School District, has a standard lease agreement with other school districts. But Campbell school officials would not agree to that lease.

The standard lease, he said, calls for the owners of property to maintain the property, pay custodial fees and utilities.

"We just can't go into another district and pay twice as much for comparable facilities," Hichborn said. "It appears as though it's dead — they didn't accept our terms," he said.

Trustees passed their lease agreement unanimously last Thursday. The agreement calls for the leasing of the building and grounds of the school for $70,000 a year. Repairs, maintenance, utilities, and custodial services would be the responsibility of adult education.

SUBLEASING would have been allowed with public agencies for "the purposes of providing educational and community service programs," and would have to be under the direction and control of adult education. All subleases would have been made only with the consent of the school district.

The City of Campbell had hoped to sub-lease a portion of the school from adult education for a senior citizen's program.

Trustees passed the agreement Dec. 15 after adopting a resolution of intention to sell the property during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1980. But that sale could come much sooner.

PART OF the resolution was amended by Trustee Dr. Robert King to set March 1, 1978 as the date a sale of that surplus school site will proceed if a firm lease agreement is not worked out.

"Otherwise the property will end up in a state of disrepair," King said. The district has "procrastinated long enough," he added.

The motion with the amendment, passed on a 4 to 1 vote with Trustee Jennie Vaughn dissenting. Although agreeing in principal to the time limit. Vaughn said the March 1 deadline did not give enough time for lease considerations.

....Tough luck for seniors

The apparent failure of adult education to lease Hamilton School will have an impact on the senior citizens programs sponsored by the City of Campbell.

Officials had planned to sublease part of that school property for the Senior Nutrition Program and the Campbell Senior Social Club.

Members of the club have asked repeatedly for better meeting facilities.

They presently use the Campbell library community room twice monthly. With the use of the school site they planned to expand their meetings and activities.

The nutrition program is now in rented space at the Orchard City Grange Hall on N. First st.

According to City Manager Bob Stephens, if no agreement is worked out between the elementary district and adult education, the local programs will have to remain where they are for now.

20 feet of xmas cheer

Christmas trees are filling living rooms and dens throughout the city with the holiday spirit. One tree, the 20-foot Douglas fir at the Peery home on Old Orchard road, fills half the room. At left, Laura, 10, and Sara, 14, shake packages to get a clue to the contents. According to their mother Marilyn Peery the tree took 14 strings of lights to decorate and two days of work by the entire family.

Budd ave. meeting planned

Residents of the Budd-Virginia ave. area are invited to attend a neighborhood meeting scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 5 at 7 p.m. in the Hazelwood School cafetorium, 775 Waldo raod.

Under discussion will be concern over speeding cars and traffic volumne along Budd ave., between the San Tomas Expressway and Virginia avenue.

Keith Manley, assistant civil engineer, will conduct the session.

Jean Bean, 701 Budd ave. is spearheading the drive by concerned local residents.

The rains are here

With more storms heading for Santa Clara Valley this week the rain picture was bright.

But things weren't so bad the week before.

According to Bob James of the Campbell Water Company, the four-day rain dropped 1.16 inches of rain on Campbell bringing out season total to 3.12 as of Dec. 19. Normal to date is 4.64 inches and last year we had 2.88 inches at this time.

"Things are looking up a bit," James commented.

Arlene Evans

Local homemaker will run for the city council

ARLENE EVANS

A Campbell homemaker and mother of eight will be seeking a seat on the Campbell City Council.

Last week Arlene Evans, 1660 Calado court, took out nomination papers for the March 7 election.

"Housewives are a large segment of our community who should be represented," Evans said Monday. "If elected I will work just as hard as I can for my city."

The 41-year-old woman and her husband, Brent, a member of the Campbell Civic Improvement Commission, are the parents of eight children ranging in age from 4 to 21 and the grandparents of one.

With their youngest child off to school next year, Evans says she decided this was the time to get involved in the community.

"I feel women should pitch in and do their share," Evans explained.

The entry of Evans into the City Council race makes a total of four candidates seeking the two seats. Deadline for filing nomination papers is Thursday, Dec. 29 at noon at the City Clerk's office, 75 N. Central ave.

Incumbents Ralph Doetsch and Bill Podgorsek are seeking reelection and Madge Overhouse announced last week she'll run for City Council.

Evans has been a resident of this area for 31 years and a Campbell resident for the last 20 years. She attended Campbell Grammar School and Campbell High School and has been active in school and church activities.

Evans teaches a primary class at her church, serves as a room mother at Latimer School and also handles the church preschool program.

The candidate favors two term limits for elected officials and would like to see more city programs geared towards youth.

A special visit to John Morgan

Fifth grade students from Marty Payne's class at Hazelwood School paid a special visit to former police chief John Morgan last week in his Campbell home. Morgan, who has been on disability retirement from the force since suffering a major stroke in February of 1971, obviously enjoyed his visitors.

The children brought handmade Christmas cards to Morgan and gathered in the family living room to sing Christmas carols.

The family in turn gave the carolers candy canes and letters of thanks from the former chief.

Morgan, who still suffers from the effects of the stroke, has kept an keen interest in the community he served. He can be seen around town in the specially equipped van which allows him mobility.

Campbell's largest park, located at Rincon ave. east of San Tomas Expressway, was named in his honor in 1974.

Peace on earth and goodwill

A beacon, spelling out a holiday message for residents of the Santa Clara Valley, is the PruneYard Towers in Campbell. When first erected several years ago that sign created a local flap because no sign permit had been obtained. For the last few years the permit has sailed through local channels. Starting with the 1978 holiday season, the Campbell Planning Director is authorized to issue a permit for the "Peace on Earth" message without a hearing before city officials.

(Photography by Dean Gordon)

Happy Holidays

ONE OF THE thriving trees, a Monterey pine, can be seen today along the east bank of Los Gatos Creek. Campbell water trucks are supplying the needed moisture.

Drought deals death blow to park plants

IF EVERYTHING had gone according to plan, today you'd see thousands of native plants dotting the east bank of the new Los Gatos Creek Park. Thousands of shrubs and plants blanketing the mounds used as a natural buffer from Highway 17 and hundreds of small native trees that would one day provide shelter for park visitors and the creatures who call the creek their home.

Instead, that area looks much like it did three years ago when the project first started.

The culprit was the drought and a financial crunch which altered the original plans of the Santa Clara Valley Water District.

ANYWHERE FROM 40 to 75 per cent of the trees and shrubs planted along the creekbank and mounds have died, depending on whose estimate you use. And the hydroseeding which was to have covered the creek bank with poppies and other native flowers and plants produced weeds instead that had to be cleared by order of the County Fire Marshall.

Today, a water truck from the Campbell Public Works Department supplies the estimated 1,000 plants and seedling trees remaining and two men keep the weeds cleared from those struggling flora.

The planning and planting of Los Gatos Creek was done with plenty of forethought. What they didn't count on was a two-year drought that changed all those plans.

The hydroseeding, for example, is a common planting technique in which parks are blanketed with hundreds of thousands of seeds with nature doing the rest. But nature didn't cooperate in 1976 and 1977 wasn't any better.

ORIGINALLY, THAT seeding was to be done in February (just before the wettest weather sets in) but that was delayed and the spring and summer warmth produced weeds instead of plants.

Originally, one gallon size trees were to be planted but the cost became prohibitive and instead seedlings were placed in the soil. With two years of dry weather, many of them are dead.

According to Steve Renfro, landscape architect for the water district, there are two issues in the problems of Los Gatos Creek Park.

First, "We had a very, very large area to cover with a small amount of money," he said.

And second, the hydroseeding project was scuttled by the drought.

UP UNTIL JUNE of 1977 the contractor was responsible for those remaining plants and trees. After that, Campbell took over the maintenance of landscaping and recreation areas, the state takes care of the mounds next to the freeway and the water district is responsible for the creekbank. West of Camden ave. the water district is responsible for the entire area, except for land near Highway 17.

Felice Errico, county park planner, estimated 40 per cent of the shrubs and seedlings are dead today, victims of the drought. And the hydroseeding project is batting zero.

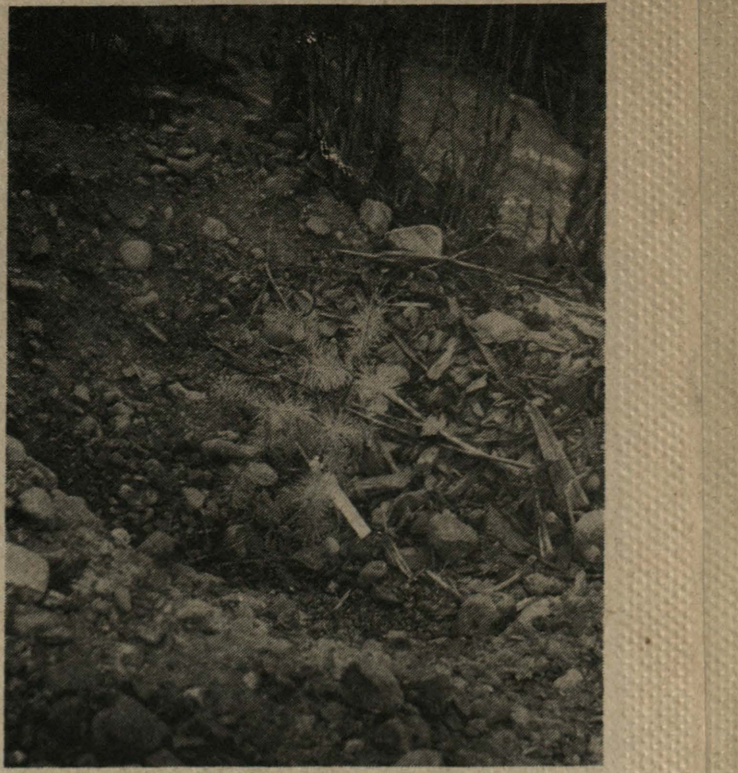
"Originally the hydroseeding was to be done in early spring," Errico explained, "It got postponed and we lost everything."

Phase II of the park project involved installing sprinkler systems for the west side of the creekbank so those plants have survived.

And Phase III will involve the development of recreation areas and the planting of large native plants and trees; better equipped to withstand the effects of a continued drought.

SO, IF YOU'RE walking along the east bank of Los Gatos Creek, between Campbell and Camden ave., give a word of encouragement to the tiny trees and shrubs struggling to survive there.

They need it.



NOT SO fortunate was this small pine which couldn't survive the two-year drought. At least 40 per cent of the other plants and shrubs couldn't either.

Gala xmas party held last week

Over 100 people attended the gala Christmas party for senior citizens last week in Sunsweet Hall at The Factory.

The Campbell High School Choir and string orchestra, under the direction of Bill Perkins, performed along with the West Valley College Dance Club and members of "Plus One Dance Company."

Kathy Cote of Campbell Community Services was awarded a special tribute and gift for her work with seniors.

Santa Claus (Rusty Hammer) also put in a special appearance.

$475,000 HCD project is back before council

An alternate plan for using $475,000 in federal Housing and Community Development funds comes before city councilmen at the Tuesday, Dec. 27 meeting. Sessions start at 8 p.m. in the Council Chamber, 75 N. Central ave.

Originally, $400,000 of that total was to go for acquisition of the old Campbell grammar school property for use as a neighborhood center. A report at the last council session indicated federal authorities took a dim view of spending the lion's share of the 1978-79 HCD grant for that project.

A two member subcommittee of the City Council met with federal and county staffers Monday afternoon to come up with an alternate proposal.

Also up for discussion next Tuesday night is a referral from the Planning Commission regarding a possible limitation on the number of fast food restaurants in the city. A recent application for a new restaurant at Campbell ave. and San Tomas Aquino road before planners led to discussion of the need for a limitation. Commissioners are asking for direction from the Council.

Other agenda items include;

- Possible follow-up action on the Dec. 19 study session regarding which departments will use the new first floor additions when completed.
- Requests for reappointment to several city commissions including Lori Wernicke and Ken Podgorsek (youth advisory) and Frank Kukuk (parks and recreation).
- Discussion of a dedication ceremony for the newly-named J.C. Ainsley Park (formerly Harrison Park).

Living Christmas trees have gained in popularity in recent years and thousands of local homes will be holding a tree planting after the holidays. Be sure to give careful thought to where you plant it though. (Another impression brought to you by the Silent Company mime troupe).

One change.....deserves another

The decision to close off Central avenue, between Civic Center drive and Grant street, has resulted in a situation which calls for additional change.

The entrance to both City Hall and the Campbell library now face what will eventually be a landscaped area. Both addresses, 75 and 70 N. Central ave. are now, we feel, of no use in locating these buildings.

To those familiar with our City Hall and library, no address is necessary.

For those new to this city or for visitors, the present addresses are impossible to locate from existing streets.

We suggest both buildings change their addresses to reflect the streets they are accessible from. City Hall could become 70 N. First st. and the library should be officially listed as 75 N. Harrison st.

It would certainly make them easier to find.

THAT 'POP' YOU HEARD. . .

Patrons of the Campbell library last Wednesday afternoon were startled to hear loud noises coming from Regional Librarian Beverly Booth's office. But it wasn't what it sounded like; the "pop" of champagne bottles being uncorked.

Wednesday night was the annual family Christmas party and the sound was helium-filled balloons burst ing in Beverly's office.

Seems that the ceiling of her office, where the balloons were resting, was a little too warm.

Her solution was to turn out the lights and that helped the balloon situation but did little for her work efficiency.

Every try writing a memo in the dark?

siren sounds

BAH, HUMBUG!

While a standing room only crowd was enjoying the Christmas program at Dover School last week three boys decided to do a little "decorating."

The school walls and cars in the school parking lot were sprayed with shaving cream and pelted with eggs.

The trio, ages 11 and 12, were cited for malicious mischief.

CLERKS NAB SUSPECTS

Three juveniles and one 20-year-old male reportedly caused a disturbance at Nob Hill supermarket on Campbell ave. last Thursday allowing one of them to scoop $530 from a cash register and make their escape. But the four didn't count on the diligence of two clerks.

The first clerk followed them to their car as they made their getaway and phoned the license number to Campbell police.

A second clerk took off after the suspects in his sports car and followed them almost to Fremont before they were stopped by Fremont police on Highway 17.

Arrested at the scene were three juveniles, one age 13 and two 15 years of age and the adult.

A paper bag containing $514 in cash was recovered from under the hood of the car. A total of $16 in checks have still not been recovered.

CLOTHING SLASHED

Two young women are being sought for questioning in connection with a vandalism which caused $800 in damages at a PruneYard clothing store last week.

According to reports, pants suits, a coat and several jackets were slashed with a knife.

HARD HEARTED BURGLARS

San Tomas School was reportedly broken into just before Christmas vacation last week and $146.13 in valuables missing.

In addition to a cassette recorder and two calculators, one classroom reported a soccer ball and change from students desks were taken. And 14 wrapped Christmas gifts for the student gift exchange.

Term limitation is needed

EDITOR:

Perhaps, because I'm temporarily out of service, recovering from minor surgery, I read the Dec. 15 Campbell PRESS from cover to cover and enjoyed every bit of it.

Two stories particularly caught my attention and I wish to comment on both of them.

Your story about the Cambrian Village Homeowners Association to LAFCO to change their county area's sphere of influence from San Jose to Campbell is, in my view, a good example of timely reporting.

Those residents are actively responding to a City Council (San Jose) that cares more about its personal political careers and public images than about the welfare, hopes and aspirations of the over half-a-million people it has pledged itself to serve. Good luck to Ben Schramm and his group. I sure hope you follow-up on this story.

Also, your story regarding the March 7 Council race, reporting that Madge Overhouse, will challenge the two incumbents is personally most heartening.

I hope even more citizens will announce for the two seats as I personally find it indecorous that one incumbent is seeking a third term while another is asking Campbell voters for a vainglorious FIFTH TERM.

I am absolutely convinced that the City of Campbell needs a term limitation ordinance and I would welcome hearing from others who feel as I do and would like to become involved in an action program.

WHY

TO SAVE FOR YOUR RETIREMENT?

These days, nearly every bank and savings and loan is talking about retirement plans to shelter 1977 income. They're good plans. Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) for people who don't have a retirement plan where they work. And Keogh accounts for people who are self-employed.

The fact is, each retirement plan requires a trustee. And a trustee usually wants a fee. Which is what a lot of banks and savings and loans don't talk about.

Fidelity Federal offers standard IRA and Keogh accounts, too. You can shelter up to $1500 a year in our IRA, and up to $7500 a year in our Keogh. In both cases, the contribution and the interest it earns are tax-deductible until you retire.

The difference is...

We won't charge you an annual trustee fee. Every dollar you set aside for your retirement goes for your retirement. Which is how it should be.

We can talk about other differences, too.

For example, was your spouse employed last year? If not, you can add another $250 to your IRA contribution. The total you set aside can be as much as $1750 split into two accounts...with no trustee fee on either of them.

Another difference...

We'll even accept stock you've accumulated from a previous corporate pension or profit-sharing plan. We'll roll it over into a tax-sheltered IRA for you. Again, at no fee.

Keogh accounts? Sure. Trustee fee? Of course not.

Whether you choose an IRA or a Keogh, your funds can begin earning 7¾% immediately. With daily compounding, it comes to an annual yield of 8.06%. You've heard about federal regulations which require substantial interest penalties in the event of early withdrawals. At Fidelity Federal, these penalties are waived when you meet the qualifications for retirement.

Act before Dec. 31st...

If you're thinking about an IRA or a Keogh, talk to us. If you already have one someplace else, talk to us. You must do it before Dec. 31 to get maximum 1977 tax sheltered benefits. And the sooner you do, the more money you'll be able to shelter.

We think you'll like the ways we're different. We know you'll like the savings.

A Wiz of a holiday party

Singing, dancing and goodies at the Campbell library

The Wizard of Oz put in a special appearance at the Campbell library last week, along with his friends, Dorothy, the Tinman, the Scarecrow, the Cowardly Lion and the Good Witch of the East.

The occasion was the annual holiday party for youngsters sponsored jointly by the library and Friends of the Campbell Library.

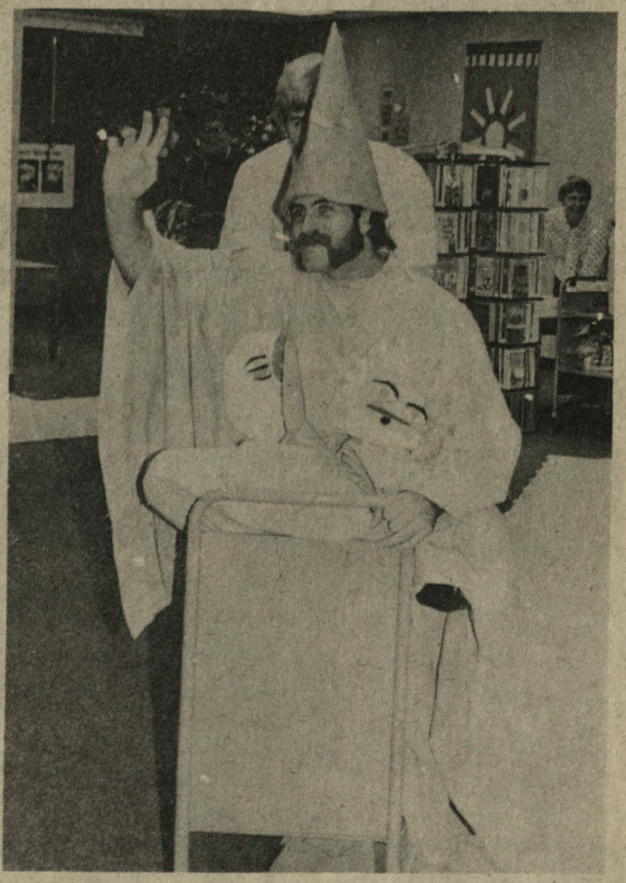
But the Wizard also got plenty of other help in transforming the children's wing into Oz, complete with a "yellow brick road."

The Campbell Kiwanis Club filled the helium balloons handed out to youngsters that night. The Country Woman's Club of Campbell baked the cookies, MacDonald's restaurants donated the orange drink and the Campbell Exchange Club paid the lion's share of boxed Christmas candy handed out that night.

As part of the evening's drama the Cowardly Lion (Camille Curtiss) is awarded a medal for courage by the Wizard. Tinman (Tom Dupre) claps his approval.

Youngsters, like Shawnna Rummell, 5, brought handmade decorations from home that night to help trim the Xmas tree in the children's wing.

Leading guests in a rousing version of "We Wish You A Merry Christmas" was Dorothy (Bonnie Buell).



The Wizard (Dale Lauer) arrives on a bookcart down the yellow brick road to distribute holiday goodies.

(Photography by Amy Huntoon)

Acting out five golden rings from the "Twelve Days of Christmas" last Wednesday night were Sara Traw, 3, and Sara Cripe, 3.

Green balloons and candy canes

A Christmas tree isn't complete without the crowning glory and Robby Yee, 3, does the honors with an assist from Scarecrow (Karen Harris).

nutrition notes / Cook it safely — make it juicy

By DOROTHY TERRILL

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dorothy Terrill, a registered dietitian and instructor at De Anza College, holds a M.S. in Nutrition from UC, Berkeley. Questions about nutrition are invited. Address all questions to: Dorothy Terrill, Nutrition Notes, Suburban Newspaper Publications Inc., P.O. Box 368, Cupertino, 95014. Mrs. Terrill will answer questions as space allows.

"What is the safest method to cook my Christmas turkey?" asks a reader.

That's a good question as poultry is especially susceptible to salmonella food poisoning but post-dinner "tummy aches" can be prevented when it is handled with care. It is important to achieve an internal temperature of 180° to 185°F. throughout the bird. To reach this, the poultry should be cooked at an oven temperature of 325°F. throughout the cooking period.

According to the University of California Agricultural Extension Service bulletin "Meat and Poultry Cooking Know–How," it takes 5½ to 6½ hours to cook a 16 to 20 pound turkey which is just thawed, or at any rate chilled, and stuffed just prior to putting it in the oven. The cooking times are approximate, they note, and a meat thermometer should be used and the temperature of 180° to 185°F. reached in the thigh. Be sure that the thermometer is in the fleshy portion of the bird and not touching a bone.

When the turkey is stuffed, the cooked stuffing should register a temperature of 165°F. in the center. The 325°F. suggested temperature will be sufficiently slow to leave you with a tender, juicy bird and yet achieve a sufficiently high internal temperature to be safe. When the turkey is stuffed, all the stuffing should be removed immediately to prevent bacterial growth. No dressing should be left in the carcass when the left-over turkey is refrigerated. Left-overs should be refrigerated as soon as the meal is over. Leaving the turkey out for nibblers invites bacterial invasion.

The safest method is to cook the dressing separately in a casserole. This cuts down on cooking time and carving it is less of a hassle since the dressing does not have to be dug out first. Many people prefer to have the stuffing in the bird and this is perfectly safe when it is stuffed just prior to putting it in the oven at the recommended temperature. When you do put the dressing into the turkey it should be remembered that stuffing expands when it cooks and should be packed in loosely.

Symptoms of salmonella poisoning generally start within 12 to 36 hours after eating contaminated food and last for 2 to 7 days. Because the symptoms don't start within a few hours, people often do not associate their illness with something they ate. They think they have picked up a case of the "flu" because the symptoms include headache, vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal cramps, and fever. While it is not fatal unless the person is very young or very old with decreased resistance, it is nevertheless uncomfortable and unnecessary when proper precautions are taken.

More information about food safety is available in "Hot Tips on Food Protection," "Keeping Food Safe to Eat" and "Facts About Food Poisoning" all put out by the United States Department of Agriculture and the University of California Extension. These are available from the local co-operative extension office, the government book store in San Francisco, and the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. The most reliable source of accurate information regarding cooking methods, times, and temperatures are available from the government. Any reliable cook book author should take their information from this source.

Speaking of books, for those of you with some last minute hard-to-buy gifts still to purchase, why not consider a nutrition book? Some titles and authors which are reliable reading for the layman are "Food for Sport" by Dr. Nathan Smith (diet for all types of athletes—the week-end jogger, child, and professional), "The New Nuts Among The Berries" by Ronald Deutsch (entertaining expose' of many food fads), "A Diet for Living" by Dr. Jean Mayer (nutrition information in a question and answer format), "Creative Food Experiences for Children" by Mary Goodwin and Gerry Pollen and "Feed me I'm Yours" by Vicki Lansky (both for parents or teachers of young children.

THERE WERE some novel twists in the Dover School production of "Twas the Night Before Christmas-1977" presented last week. Santa Claus (played by Eric Golback in the dress rehearsal) never got off the ground to deliver presents. Ms. Santa Claus (played by Pam Yore above) had to do the honors when Santa didn't get his outfit cleaned in time for Christmas Eve. This "liberated" Xmas story was written and directed by Kathy Bradlay. Gerald Harrison played Santa for the evening performance and Carol Sanzone was Ms. Claus.

Seniors invited to free dinner

A holiday dinner with all the trimmings is being planned for senior citizens on Christmas Day in a donated hall across from O'Connor Hospital, 2101 Forest ave., San Jose.

Organizer Judy Anderson says any senior with no place to go is invited to attend the free celebration which will include dancing, singing and a visit from Santa Claus bearing gifts as well as Xmas dinner. Hours are 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Call Anderson at 379-7630 or Elsie Sutter at 379-5494 if you plan to attend.

Donations of prepared foods or small gifts for men and women are needed, Anderson said last week. Also needed are people to provide transportation to and from the gala party.

Anyone who can help should call one of the numbers above by Saturday, Dec. 24.

You may see George on TV

CAMPBELL'S George Chung has been asked to sign with a big name talent agency in Hollywood and is discussing the prospect of acting in an upcoming television series.

What George did to receive all this special attention was walk away with the grand championship at the recent Hollywood Martial Arts Invitational Action Contest.

The 16 year-old Campbell High School junior was impressed with his competition and surprised by the big win, which earned him a 5-foot trophy.

"I saw men who have written books I've read competing," George said, "and people I've seen in movies. I thought, 'This is my competition?' "

But the local first degree black belt in Tae Kwon Do (Moo Duk Kwon) wasn't judged on martial arts ability alone. That competition also was rated on style and acting ability.

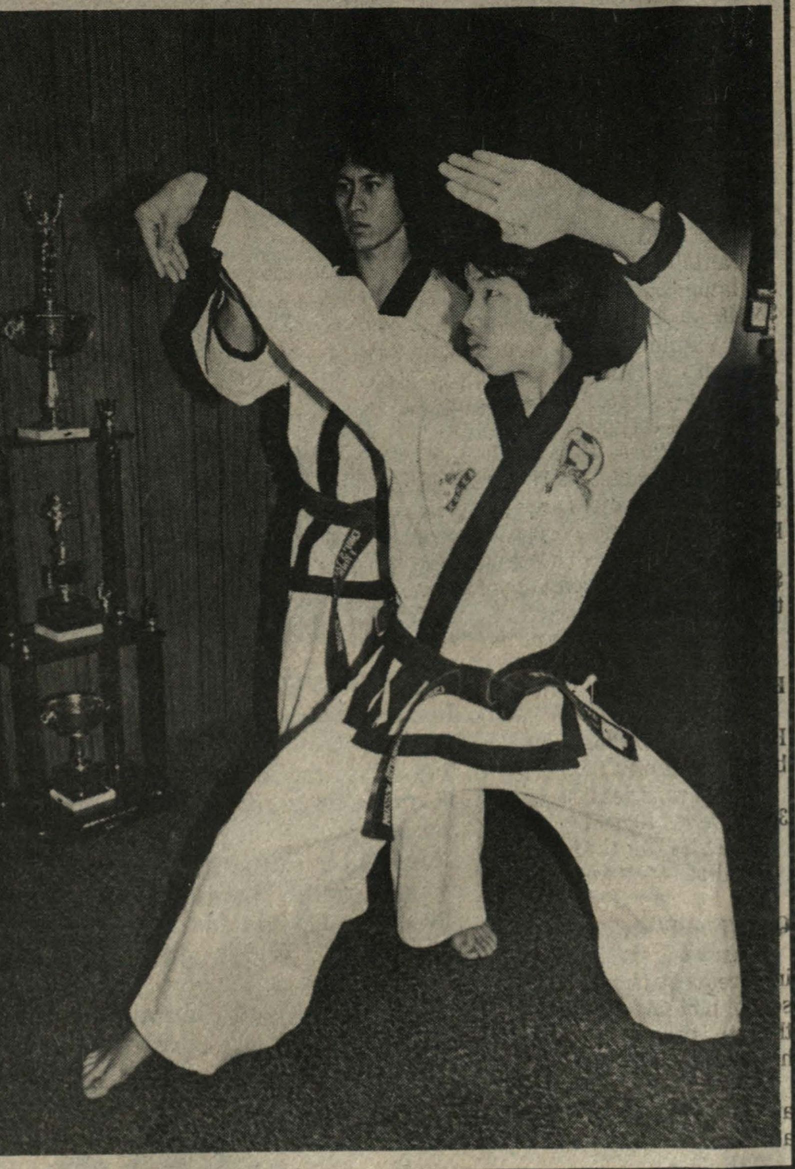
"I've always had ambitions to be an actor," George explained last week. He added he's been disappointed in local school and summer school productions he's been in.

"I've always been type cast because I'm an Oriental," he charged.

For the competition George performed a martial arts routine (similar to the floor exercises in gymnastics, he explained).

After the competition George says he was approached by Gary Owens who's working on an upcoming TV series.

The local student also competed in the free-style event, placing second in men's black belt form.



ENJOYING Christmas caroling by fifth grade students from Hazelwood School last week was former police chief John Morgan

COFFEE HOUSE APPEAL DROPPED

City councilmen denied without prejudice the appeal of Robert Firato of the Planning Commission's denial of his plans for a coffee house at 476 E. Campbell ave. Firato had planned to open a night spot for teenagers, featuring a dance floor and regular disc jockeys.

That appeal had been continued several times in recent months when no one appeared before the Council.

CAMDEN SIDEWALK PROJECT AWARDED

Campbell officials awarded the bid for sidewalk installation on Camden ave. to James Griffiths, Inc. for $25,480 at the last council session.

A similar project on Virginia ave., to be funded through the federal Safer Roads project, was continued for 30 days after both bids came in higher than the engineer's estimates.

Public Works Director Joe Elliott told councilmen the price of concrete has risen, resulting in the higher bids, and that contractors are very busy now with the dozens of paving projects underway throughout the county.

If the city goes ahead with the Virginia ave. project $7,350 will have to come out of the general fund to make up the difference.

Total cost of the two projects would be $38,818.

HOLIDAY CAMP, PART II

There's still time to sign up for the second week of the Holiday Camp program for youngsters, offered by Campbell Community Services.

The second session runs from Monday, Dec. 26 through 30 at Dover School.

Fee is $10 for the five, four hour sessions.

Call 378-8141 weekdays for more information.

QUILT ASSOCIATION SEEKS HEADQUARTERS

Last week the Santa Clara Valley Quilt Association put in a request to use part of the old Campbell grammar school building for their museum and meeting rooms, if the city is successful in acquiring that site for a neighborhood center.

Sylvia Moore, chairman of the group's site committee, appeared before the City Council and told of the group's activities and needs.

The old school at Winchester and Campbell ave. is part of the Campbell elementary school district and no decision has been made by trustees on disposition of that vacant school site.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT FOR TAX AIDE PROGRAM

Frank Freeland of Campbell is busy recruiting volunteers to serve as tax counselors to older persons for the 1978 income tax season.

The Tax-Aide Program, sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association, provides free income tax advice.

Freeland said volunteers should be older adults and have a general knowledge of tax matters. They should also be willing to take part in an Internal Revenue Service Training Course and have four hours weekly to devote to counseling.

Call Freeland at 379-0782 for more information.

College hires county counsel

West Valley college district trustees entered into a $72,000 agreement for legal services at their Thursday night session.

Under the terms of the joint agreement, the district will contract with the County Counsel's office to provide a full-time attorney and a half-time stenographer for West Valley and the San Jose Community College District. The local share of that 18-month contract is $36,000.

Board members Carol LaMarre and Foster Lopes voted against that motion but both said they did not oppose the issue. Lopes said he wanted more information about which services the county office now provides free.

Trustee Robert Brydon, speaking in favor of the contract, charged, "we are currently getting mediocre attention from excellent attorneys."

The County Counsel's office provides free legal service to all school districts in the county. Superintendent James Hardy noted that when school district are in need of opinions or clarifications of law, these types of issues get low priority over cases which will be heard in court.

With the two college districts sharing an attorney, he added, each district can expect to receive better and faster service in legal matters.

Originally Foothill Community College District was planning to be part of the consortium, but recently hired an attorney on a full-time basis. San Jose's governing board approved the agreement earlier this month.

In other action Thursday trustees:

- Set a special meeting for Tuesday, Dec. 20 at 5:30 p.m., Campbell campus, to consider a ballot argument in favor of the district's $30 million bond election on March 7, and another special meeting Jan. 31 with the Citizens Advisory Committee.
- Heard reports on Mission College's instructional development program, the possibility of a PAR course at Mission College and on the athletic program at West Valley College. Larry Jennings, director of athletics, told board members that the women's cross country team took the conference championship, as did the men's cross country team and the water polo team.
- Authorized an application for funds under the Higher Education Act Grant for closed circuit television equipment at Mission College.

Boundary change

Petitions filed by Cambrian residents

A PETITION SIGNED by more than 80 per cent of the registered voters in the Cambrian Village area has been filed with the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) asking for a change from San Jose's to Campbell's sphere of influence.

According to Jimmie Grant, an officer in the Cambrian Village Homeowners' Association, 414 signatures were collected in less than three days over the Dec. 10 weekend.

The petitions seek to make the boundary change for unincorporated county areas bounded on the north by Campbell ave., the south by Camden ave., on Bascom ave. to the east and by Highway 17 to the west.

According to Paul Saegers, executive director of LAFCO, that request has been placed on the Wednesday, Jan. 4 agenda and the Board is expected to refer the matter to both San Jose and Campbell for comment and set a date for a public hearing.

SAN JOSE'S position on that petition is already clear. In a letter to LAFCO they requested all boundary proposals be held in abeyance until the city completes studies now underway.

In a cover letter accompanying the petition, Cambrian Village residents cited eight reasons for seeking that change.

They include:

- Cambrian Village residents have historically identified themselves with the City of Campbell.
- Campbell can offer basic services (such as paramedics and emergency services) at a lower cost.
- Residents have used and continue to use Campbell facilities such as parks, streets and businesses.
- Residents have had a Campbell mailing address for years.

- CAMPBELL COULD provide a substantially higher level of service in fire and paramedic protection.
- The City of Campbell offers a more responsive and concerned government.

According to Grant, the homeowner's group encountered only two or three people opposed to the boundary change while circulating petitions.

"We have 100 per cent support on many streets," she added.

Don't drink and drive

How to avoid 2,200 officers

"Drivers under the influence of alcohol are a particular threat on our roadways during the holiday season," announced Campbell Police Chief Don Burr. "It's a time when more people attend holiday functions and parties where alcohol is almost always consumed."

Last week Burr joined law enforcement officials in 12 other public agencies throughout Santa Clara County to launch the third annual "Avoid the 13" campaign designed to educate the public to the hazards of drunk driving and to help curb the problem.

The campaign appears to be working, Burr added. Last year the number of arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol dropped to 10, compared to 16 in Campbell the year before. There were no fatalities on Campbell streets which helped reduce the county-wide death toll to two, compared to 13 deaths before the program began two years ago.

"The statistics show that we are reaching people, and maybe even making them think twice about driving home after drinking at a holiday party," Burr said.

"Avoid the 13" is a joint effort of 13 law enforcement agencies throughout the county and involves about 2,200 officers. The crackdown, which began Friday, Dec. 16, will continue through Jan. 2.

"We are increasing the number of patrol officers in the area as a safety measure for all Campbell residents," Burr announced. "If you drink and drive, you can expect to meet up with one of our patrol officers."

THREE PERSONS were injured in a rear end collision west of the Campbell-Union ave. intersection Monday afternoon. A car, driven by a 19-year-old Campbell youth, rammed into the back of a car stopped for the traffic light at Union ave. The driver of the second car was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital for possible back injuries and a passenger in the car driven by the youth was taken to the hospital for possible head injuries. The youth, who suffered minor injuries, is having a complaint sought against him for excessive speed.

A second look at sanitary district merger proposal

Campbell city councilmen will be reconsidering their initial opposition to the consolidation of Sanitary District 4, with district 2 and 3, at the Tuesday, Dec. 27 council session.

Under the proposal, district 2 and 3 would merge with local district 4. At the last meeting in November councilmen unanimously voiced opposition to that proposal.

A letter from Mayor Bill Podgorsek to the County Board of Supervisors stated Campbell officials dont feel sufficient evidence has been developed to show the operation of district 4 would be improved by the consolidation.

Last week Supervisor Rod Diridon appeared before the Council to speak in favor of that plan. He said the merger would result in a cost savings (no figures were available) and that it would make the "relatively invisible" sanitary boards more visable to taxpayers. With the merger, Diridon said, he expects press representatives to attend meetings and report on the district's business.

Diridon also told officials the present board structure would remain intact. Presently representatives of cities (usually the Mayor) sit on the Board of Directors.

Directors are paid $50 for each meeting they attend.

Dave Finch, a Campbell resident and member of the county task team which recommended the consolidation, told Campbell officials the merger would result in greater political assessibility and accountability.

Take some time to ponder, Lib

For Dec. 24 through Dec. 30

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be patient with associates, Ari, and try to enjoy holiday mood which prevails. Personal problem best resolved by time. Loved one may offer to help with burden. Accept. Banked fire blazes anew. Whee!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Space and time made perceptible to heart as well as head. This week, Taurus, you must retreat in order to advance. Full Moon does its usual damage, but you survive. On last day do some fa-la-la-ing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): To avoid trouble, Gem, control your natural "roving eye". Well, for pity's sake, you can at least try! Before week is finito, Cupid makes you an offer you can't refuse.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Action you take this week pays off before year is over. Be progressive, but practical. Postpone nonsense, and next week you can have second helpings. Honestly. Would I kid you, Moonbaby? Never.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Yes, Leo, you are indeed "King of the Jungle," but try to understand that kingdoms are not as popular as in the past. In fact, they are rapidly being phased out. Abuse power you possess and you too may be dethroned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Plan your week so you will have the time to enjoy all the goodies you have coming, Virg. And they are myriad. Just you wait and see. Week of Full Moon ends on key of A, for appreciate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Decision must be made. Take some (but not too much) time to ponder. Your sign is the Scales, Lib, but keep both hands in mid-air as you weigh all possibilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You succeed with ideas if you are gentle. It will require strength not to use strong words. In short, Scorp, be diplomatic rather than dogmatic. Week skids to a hectic close.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sweet and sour week ahead, Saj, but that's not bad. After all, sweets may satisfy, but they also make you fat, rot your teeth and ruin your complexion. A touch of sour will be a nice change. You'll see.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19): Wonderful week for you, Cap, as your capacity for loving (and accepting, love) increases. Words from a distance make your little heart go pitty-pat. Celebrate!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hoopla week ahead, Aquari. Difficult situation/personal changes. You hold the dice, and before week is kaput you take the pot. Last day should find a secret smile on your sassy face.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Hearth and home highlighted. Secrets abound. Keep ear open but lips sealed. No need to look behind door, Pisces, unless of course you have stood there yourself. Week slams to a noisy fini.

Sixth annual football team

Fernandez, Hollars head All-SUN squad

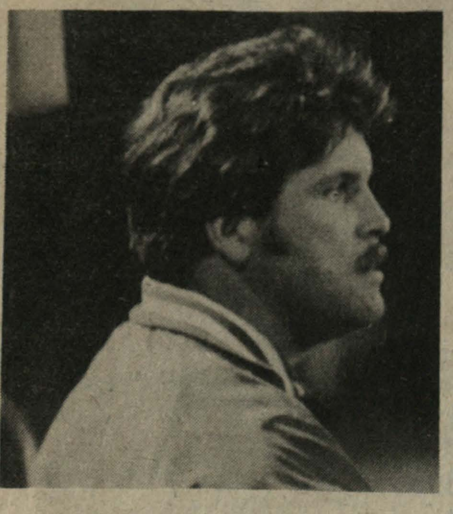
By DICK SPARRER
Sports Editor

JIM MILLER was a quarterback last fall for the San Jose State University Spartans.

At the same time, Greg Fultcher was playing linebacker for Utah State University, Glenn Cannon was playing tailback for UCLA and Pat Graham was playing defensive tackle for the University of California at Berkeley.

Now what is it that those four football players seem to have in common with Andrew Hill high school's Mervyn Fernandez?

The four collegiate players all come from Santa Clara County and so does Fernandez — that's one thing. All four were all-league high school football players and so is Fernandez — that's two!



TOP COACH — Samuel Ayer's Rod Hollars was selected the sixth annual All-SUN football team's top coach. Hollars led the Samuel Ayer Trojans to an unexpected North division championship in the North division of the MHAL.

But more importantly, all four are past winners of the most valuable player honors on the annual All-SUN football team. And now, Fernandez is a winner too!

Fernandez has been named the most valuable player in the sixth annual All-SUN football team after leading his Falcons to a league championship and to the semi-finals of the Central Coast Section football play-offs.

The two way performer actually picked up three spots on the sixth All-sun team that is dominated in 1977 by players from the Mt. Hamilton Athletic League.

FERNANDEZ WAS selected as a first team wide receiver, a first team punter and a second team defensive back in 1977. It marks the first time in the six year history of the team that any player has been mentioned three times.

Fernandez headed a list of special honor winners with his selection as the 1977 most valuable player.

Carl Monroe of Overfelt was picked as the outstanding back and George Achica of Hill was named the outstanding lineman.

Edgar Romero of Lincoln was tabbed the outstanding specialty team player and Carlos Velasco of Campbell was named the comeback player of the year.

Hill, a winner of the MHAL title for the second straight year, picked up team of the year honors and Samuel Ayer, the winner of the MHAL North division title after a slow start, was selected as the comeback team of the year.

Ayer's head coach, Rod Hollars, was selected as the All-SUN coach of the year for 1977 after taking his team to that North crown.

Fernandez was a unanimous choice as the All-SUN MVP after a super season for the Falcons. He hauled in 49 passes for 1,139 yards for Hill and scored 20 touchdowns. He intercepted five passes and added a punting average of 43.0, including booting a 72 yarder.

FERNANDEZ topped the all-SUN offensive unit that also included quarterback Rick Rebozzi of Lincoln, running backs Monroe and Floyd Denson of Milpitas, fullback George Rizzo of Camden, wide receiver Rob Rocha of Lincoln, tight end Greg Hazel of Oak Grove, tackles Achica and Glen Gray of Campbell, guards Bob Reed of Lick and Fred King of Independence and center Barry Haycock of Oak Grove.

Members of the prestigious defensive unit include linebackers Dan Craig of Oak Grove, Pat Morin of Branham and Paul Cole of Milpitas, defensive ends Gray and Neil Buchholz of Hill, linemen Achica, Jim Griffin of Ayer and Steve Aimonetti of Campbell and backs Larry Terronez of Branham, Nattie George of Overfelt, Kevin Wheeler of Ayer and Greg Woodard of Silver Creek.

Joining Fernandez as first team specialty players were kick returners Adrian Subia of Willow Glen and Rick McDiarmid of Leigh and place-kicker Romero.

Monroe, a speedster from Overfelt, was an easy choice as the season's best back. After missing part of the year with an injury, the Royal still came back to rush for 1,071 yards for Overfelt and score seven touchdowns.

Achica was named the outstanding lineman after winning first team spots in both the All-SUN offensive and defensive lines. The junior tackle was one of the Hill leaders this past fall in the Falcon's title drive.

ROMERO PROVED to be the outstanding specialty player of the year after a strong place-kicking season for the Lions. Romero converted 22 of 26 extra point kicks and added four of 10 field goals to lead area kick scorers with 34 points.

Velasco, who spent most of the year on the sidelines in Campbell with ankle injuries, came on strong late in the year to nail comeback player of the year honors. Velasco came right back from his injury with a 100 yard game and finished the year with 288 yards.

Andrew Hill was picked the All-SUN team of the year after advancing to the CCS semi-finals. Hill won the MHAL's South division title with a perfect 5-0 record and knocked off Ayer for the League crown. The Falcons then won a pair of play-off games before losing to North Salinas in the semi-finals. Hill finished the year with an 11-2 record.

Ayer finished the year with a 7-4 record after being 3-3 at one point in the season to win the comeback team of the year honor. The Trojans came up with three straight upset victories to finish the MHAL North division season with a 4-1 record, good for a championship.

Hollars led the Trojans to that miracle finish and the second year Ayer boss won coach of the year honors for his efforts.

REBOZZI'S outstanding statistics helped him to the first team quarterback spot ahead of second teamers Jack Overstreet of Hill and Marty Mornhinweg of Oak Grove.

Rebozzi completed 143 of 276 passes for close to 2,300 yards and 24 touchdowns. He was also a dangerous ball carrier in the Lion attack.

Overstreet completed 104 of 184 passes for 1,896 yards and 25 touchdowns and Mornhinweg, just a sophomore, hooked up on 99 of 157 tosses for 1,194 yards and 13 TD's.

Monroe led the list of running backs on the first team. Joining Monroe in the first backfield is running back Denson and fullback Rizzo. Denson, just a sophomore, rambled for 906 yards and 14 touchdowns this year and Rizzo gained over 800 yards and scored nine times.

John Tuggle of Independence, who gained over 700 yards, and Mark Magee of Milpitas, a junior who picked up 678 yards, were second team running backs. Craig of Oak Grove, a first team linebacker, was the number two fullback after rushing for 583 yards and catching 23 passes for 239 yards.

Fernandez and Rocha ranked as the leading receivers on the All-SUN squad. Rocha joined Fernandez at a first team post after grabbing 65 passes for 1,273 yards.

SECOND TEAM wide receivers include Greg Woodard of Silver Creek, who caught 39 passes for 670 yards including 12 in one game, Guy Gandenberger of Blackford, who snagged 48 passes for 800 yards and 11 touchdowns, and Brian Anderson of Santa Teresa, who grabbed 29 passes for 368 yards and seven to finish his outstanding career with 159 receptions for 2,003 yards and 23 TD's.

Hazel was the number one All-SUN tight end after grabbing a school record 34 passes for 367 yards for the Eagles. He was also an important blocker in the Oak Grove front offensive wall.

Sope Faga nailed second team honors for Hill after catching 23 passes for over 700 yards.

Achica and Gray won first team All-Sun spots at offensive tackle and Silver Creek's Jim Kelly and Oak Grove's Keith Hubbard were tabbed to the second team.

Reed and King claimed first team guard spots and Haycock was named the top center. Camden's Dennis Hancock and Campbell's Dan Raines were picked as second team guards and Matua Mauga was the second team center.

Romero and Fernandez headed the All-SUN first team specialty unit that also included kick returners McDiarmid and Subia. McDiarmid had a 17.3 punt return average and a 22.5 kickoff average and Subia returned kicks for a pair of touchdowns.

Rocha of Lincoln and Eric McPherson of Mt. Pleasant, both dangerous ball carriers, were picked second team kick returners.

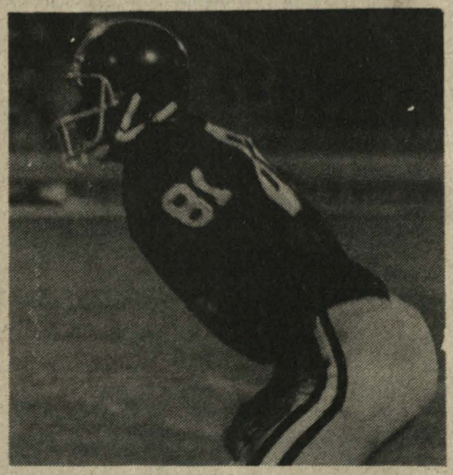
NICK HASTINGS of Santa Teresa, who drilled 14 of 15 extra points and added a field goal, was the second team place-kicker and Hal Smeltzer of Pioneer, who boasted a 40.0 average, was the second team punter. Smeltzer had one punt of 65 yards against Gunderson and had six others over 50 yards.

Claiming positions on the second team defensive unit were linebackers Larry Areglia of Del Mar, Bob Ballard of Leland and Brian Batey of Santa Teresa, ends Vic Parrette of Ayer and Derrick Smith of Independence, linemen Mauga and Edmund Hall of Overfelt and Lee Carbonaro of Lincoln and backs Nate Martinez of Independence, Dave Russell of Hill, Scott Parker of Leland and Fernandez.

No first team player from 1976 returns to a first team position on the 1977 All-SUN team. Anderson was a first team player last year who picked up a second team wide receiver spot this fall.

Fernandez, Rebozzi, Monroe, Achica, Buchholz, Wheeler, Woodard and Romero were each second team choices last season moving into first team roles this year.

Rocha, Hazel, Gray, Craig, Morin, Terronez, George, Overstreet, Tuggle, Gandenberger, Faga, Kelly, Oreglia, Ballard, Parrette and Mauga each were named to the honorable mention last year but moved up to one of the first two teams in 1977.



MVP — Andrew Hill's talented Mervyn Fernandez was selected the sixth annual All-SUN team's Most Valuable Player. Fernandez was picked to the first team as a wide receiver and a punter and to the second team as a defensive back.

on the hot corner

by dick sparrer

IT CERTAINLY is that special time of year.

Children around the world are stealing their monther's panty hose to hang by the chimney to give Santa Claus plenty of room to unload his bag on Christmas morning.

Fathers are breaking their backs to get those extra large Christmas trees through extra small doorways in time for the kids to put on the decorations before Santa's visit.

Moms are toiling in their annual Christmas baking role, turning out cookie trees and snowmen who will no doubt not even stick around for Christmas.

And everywhere people are sending greetings of the season to friends and relatives in Christmas cards. Not to be outdone, I too would like to send out my Christmas cards just as I annually do in this column.

To boxing's heavy weight champion Muhummad Ali:

Here's best wishes and a holiday look,
To the champ of the world today;
But even Ali with his great left hook,
Couldn't fight in the NBA!

To the Oakland, or Denver, A's:
Merry Christmas and farewell to Finley's A's,
They've left Oakland now high and dry;
They gave us some thrills and championship days,
But they're bound for a "Rocky Mountain High"!

To Bob Lurie and the San Francisco Giants:
A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year,
To the Giants in the City by the Bay;
They don't understand why fans boo and jeer,
Still they trade the best players away!
They sell and they swap but have little to show,
There are Giants all over both leagues;
They give up fine players but only get dough,
That's no way to win in the bigs!
Gone Matthews, gone Maddox, gone Speier and Foli,
They're all playing somewhere else now;
For the Giants to win Lurie better be holy,
'Cause if they can, God only knows how!

sports

To John Bruno and the San Jose Sunbirds, who still face a money raising deadline if they hope to remain in the league in 1978:

To the Sunbirds and Bruno a special holiday hope,
For a Christmas gift sweeter than honey;
Forget the tie, cologne or soap on a rope,
Let Santa fill your stocking with money!

To the Santa Clara University basketball team:
Best Wishes of the season to the Broncs of SC,
They look strong this year we all must agree;
On a very good season the Broncos are banking,
They're asking St. Nick for a national ranking!

To football widows everywhere:
Merry Christmas to the wife of the football nut,
She loses her husband to grid deeds;
But it's almost time for that final hut, hut,
Here's a wish for mowed lawns and pulled weeds!

To the Cincinatti Reds of the National League:

Vida Blue wrapped up with a bow;
It's a gift that's got Cincy pennant talking,
If Bowie Kuhn says yes, not no!

To the 28 high schools that we cover throughout the school year:

Holiday wishes to the schools we follow each week,
Though at times they may think our coverage bleak;
Some schools think we favor some over theirs,
But we strive for equality despite many dares!
This paper you read is one of six sisters,
Sports coverage done by only two misters;
Dave Mendonca and I do it all, you see,
Trying to cover everyone as best as can be!
So don't get too mad if your story's not here,
Just give us a call, 'cause we are sincere;
We'll do our best to stay on the ball;
Now Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all.

To my sidekick, that sometimes hard working, always critical, seldom complaining, Dave Mendonca:

To Dave Mendonca, I gave him Christmas off,
Then he wanted New Years, it made me scoff;
Get back to your keyboard and let's hear it toll,
And Dave, please don't ask for any more coal!

Broglio-Serpa bat camp set for SJCC

THE SECOND annual "Christmas All-Star Baseball Camp," presented by former Major Leaguer Ernie Broglio and Lefty Serpa, will be held Dec. 27-30 at San Jose City College.

The camp, for players between the ages of 12 and 22, will feature members of the Oakland A's and San Francisco Giants.

Catchers Jeff Newman of the Oakland A's and Mike Sadek of the San Francisco Giants will be on hand to instruct as well as Tommy Sandt of the A's, Seattle Mariner manager Derrel Johnson and Los Angeles Dodger scout Dick Hanlon.

Clinics will be held from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each day.

Free brochures and reservations can be obtained by calling the school's main office at (415) 799-3166 (9 a.m. to noon). The tuition for the complete four day course is $59. A $10 deposit is required with the application and the balance is due the first day of the camp.

Panthers capture Live Oak crown

AT LONG LAST, this could be the year of the Panther in the West Valley Athletic League.

The Prospect Panthers, longtime residents of the WVAL's cellar in basketball, served notice last week that they intend to be prime contenders for the league title this season by breezing to the 17th annual Live Oak Invitational's championship.

For the Panthers, who are off to the best start in school history, it was their first tournament championship ever.

"I was really pleased with the poise our kids displayed," said head coach Bert Robinson after the Panthers' tournament victory. "We still have a way to go, but I thought we played well."

As for contending for the WVAL championship this year, Robinson said, "I think we'll have a shot at it. At least, I hope so."

Nick Seroff, a 6'7" transfer from Samuel Ayer high school in Milpitas, was a major force in the Panthers' surge to the Live Oak title. The Prospect center poured in 56 points in the tournament and completely dominated the boards.

Seroff was particularly effective in the Panthers' 47-37 win over Analy in the finals of the tournament, drilling in a personal season high 24 points and pulling down a game leading amount of rebounds.

Stan Kazmierczak chipped in with nine points while Rich Nelson and Paul Guenther each added four markers. Bret Guenther, Ken Souza and Tim Fleury had two points apiece.

Seroff, P. Guenther and Kazmierczak were all tabbed to the all-tournament team along with Analy's Rich Cundall and Mark Swanson, Overfelt's Mike Green, Half Moon Bay's Barry Short, Hollister's Eddie Cecena, Stevenson's Eric Thompson and Live Oak's Mike Soto.

Hollisters. Overfelt copped the consolation crown with a 56-43 triumph over Half Moon Bay. And Live Oak avoided last place by dealing the Andrew Hill Falcons a 52-41 setback.

PROSPECT had opened the tournament with a 54-39 romp over Half Moon Bay. The Panthers jumped out to a 20-9 first quarter lead and never looked back.

Seroff was the Panther leader both offensively and defensively, pouring in 22 points in addition to leading everyone in rebounds.

P. Guenther tallied nine points. B. Guenther canned eight, Kazmierczak sank six and Nelson netted four.

Stevenson captured third place honors in the tournament with a 63-58 win over

In the semi-finals, Prospect battered Hollister 72-49.

The Panthers got off to another excellent start, leading 16-6 at the end of the first quarter and 37-17 by halftime.

Kazmierczak led a balanced Panther scoring attack with 15 points while P. Guenther tanked 11 and Seroff added 10.

Mark Nelson popped in nine points, R. Nelson hooped eight, Souza meshed six and B. Guenther tallied four. Fleury, Evanson, Anderson, and Steve Roldan each sank two points and Russ Castronovo added one.

The three tournament wins ran the Panthers' season record to 5-0. Prospect opened the cage year with wins over Lynbrook and Santa Clara.

The Panthers nipped Lynbrook 62-20 in their season opened behind Kazmierczak's 24 point performance. Seroff added 18 points and P. Guenther chipped in with eight. Prospect then whipped Santa Clara 60-34 behind P. Guenther's 14 point effort. Seroff had 11 points, B. Guenther netted eight and Kazmierczak tossed in seven.

Drought relief funds waited for applicants

California farmers have applied for only $1 million of drought relief funds, after the state had set aside ten times that amount earlier this year. Deadline for farmers to apply for the assistance was Dec. 15.

The special relief fund was established under legislation from Assemblyman Vic Fazio, D-Vacaville, who said he was "extremely disappointed" at the low level of response.

"Many growers and stockmen in my district asked for this kind of assistance in personal appeals to me," Fazio said.

Fazio said that "inadequate information about the program" or "the sheer independence of farmers" could have attributed to the low number of applicants, but he will be communicating with his constituents to find out more.

The representative from Yolo and Solano counties said he did not believe the criteria for relief qualification was holding applicants back.

"I'm close enough to my farmers to know the qualification criteria was not over-restrictive and the forms were not over-burdensome," he said.

To qualify for relief funds applicants must meet these criteria:

- At least 75 per cent of gross income must be from farming.
- The land involved must be nonirrigated and situated in a drought area.
- The land must be used for agriculture only.

In addition to those requirements, the amount of assistance may not exceed 75 per cent of the land's property taxes or 50 cents per acre for unplanted rangeland or $1 per acre for crop land.

Fazio said the $10 million figure was established "as a political decision" based on information on crop loss from the state Department of Agriculture and governor's office.

He said he would consider an attempt to have the Dec. 15 deadline extended if he is convinced that such an extention would increase the number of applicants.

"When we were first trying to get this relief bill through," said Fazio, "there was concern expressed by many farmers to the Yolo County Board of Supervisors that farmers throughout the state would not be given adequate relief — that the $10 million would have to be pro-rated because of the large number of applicants.

"Nevertheless, we managed to get a $10 million appropriation bill through, and it was difficult to get that much."

Fazio said the remaining funds would probably go back to the state general fund or could be held for future drought assistance should the need for it be demonstrated.

State legislature receives dismal environmental rating

By DEAN TREMEWAN
Capitol News Service

ENVIRONMENTAL INTEREST groups have conceded they don't have the political clout with the state legislature they have enjoyed in past years.

The 1977 state legislature was given a "dismal" overall rating by the California League of Conservation Voters, a coalition group of environmental advocates with strong ties to the Sierra Club.

"We found ourselves in a position of defending the Environmental Quality Act against legislation that was intended to break the act down," said Carl Pope, executive director for the league.

The Environmental Quality Act (EQA), enacted in 1971, requires Environmental Impact Reports (EIR), to be evaluated by local and state agencies before major industrial and commercial construction can be approved.

Since its enactment it has been attributed with having a severe detrimental effect on California's business climate and success in attracting new national and international industry to California.

A proposed Dow Chemical plant, which would have created an estimated 10,000 new jobs was disbanded by the corporation after 10 months of delay in EIR approvals.

But the League of Conservation Voters contends that while EIR approval has resulted in undue red tape, lawmakers have not seen fit to make the act a workable protective statute for the environment, opting instead, they say, to introduce new legislation to make it ineffective.

And so the group has released its fifth annual analysis of the legislature's performance in environmental legislation. The ratings are publicized in detail through the various environmental group publications with the hope of informing an influential voting bloc that lawmakers must contend with for re-election support.

Individual lawmakers, each house of the legislature, and certain key committees are rated by the league in areas of pollution, land use, wildlife and habitat and EQA.

The strongly democratic Assembly rated an overall "fair" performance for energy legislation but was rated "excellent" in areas of wildlife and the Environmental Quality Act. The Assembly earned a "good" rating in pollution legislation. Since it did not vote on [illegible] major energy bill it received no rating for that category.

The slightly more conservative and Republican Senate, said Pope, was the actual cause of the overall "dismal" legislative session in 1977.

The Senate was given a "poor" rating in every category except wildlife where it gained a "fair" rating.

The league gave special praise to Sen. John Dunlap, D-Napa, and Assemblymen Gary Hart, D-Santa Barbara, Tom Bates, D-Oakland, and Mel Levine, D-Santa Monica, all of whom were rated 100 percent for their floor voting record.

Some of the major legislation included in the league's ratings include:

- SB 153 by Sen. John Dunlap, D-Napa. Bans the sale of aerosol propellants in California
- SB 1040 by Sen. Robert Beverly, D-Manhatten Beach. Exempts the 1980 Los Angeles Olympics from EQA review setting EQA bypass precedent.
- SB 1081 by Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose. Establishes Point Conception as the primary site for a proposed Liquid Natural Gas Facility.
- SB 183 by Sen John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek. Limits EIR review by all local and state agencies to 90 days.

Rep needed to serve on commission

County Supervisor Dominic Cortese is seeking a volunteer to serve on the County's Commission on the Status of Women.

The vacancy occurred with the recent resignation of Mary Jeanne Sauerwein, leaving an unexpired term of 18 months.

The commission is composed of 18 persons who advise supervisors and the county staff on problems involving discrimination against women in the community.

The commission has the authority to investigate complaints.

Anyone interested in serving on the commission should write a letter of application to Supervisor Dominic Cortese, County Government Center, Tenth Floor, 70 W. Hedding St., San Jose, 95110.
